NewMediaFest'2010: 10 Years [NewMediaArtProjectNetwork]:||cologne

by Alysse Stepanian: "For Action's Sake"

Arthur Danto distinguishes two different political responses to "the danger of art." One system controls and censors art, and the other excludes it "from the class of dangerous acts." He adds, "In the one system, the artist, however conformist, is incipiently a rebel. In the other system, every rebel, however dangerous, is incipiently a conformist. In the one system, the political prison is the standing risk. In the other a Presidential Ceremony with a Citation for Excellence is the standing promise."*

The first year anniversary show of Manipulated Image, For Action's Sake, considers the confluence of art and politics. Direct and indirect references are made to the role of mass media in the present, and its relationship to Machiavellian and Fascistic politics. A play on words, the title references "art for art's sake," the failure of Modernism to fulfill its promise of bringing social change, and the persecution of avant-garde artists by the Nazis and Stalin, as they bore the stigma of the "degenerate" and "unofficial." For Action's Sake contrasts autotelic individuals with those driven by external influences such as power and comfort, who in the end are left unfulfilled and alienated.

* The Politics of Imagination, The Lindley Lecture, University of Kansas, October 29, 1988, pgs. 13-14

by Wilfried Agricola de Cologne: For the action's sake?

When people act in a social context, they take responsibility, as long as it suits them. They try to define and explain the world through itself, without any social component. In the 19th century, art that lacked a social component, and explained itself through itself, was known as "L'art pour l'art."

While sex represents an interaction between two partners, a fetish replaces the human partner and becomes the projection of desire, an expression of self-relatedness. Action as an expression of human behavior may become such a fetish, which gets its dynamics through itself - escalating violence is an example.

A fetish represents the final state of self-relatedness, superficiality and emptiness. There are many intermediate states, during which we are in danger of losing balance, while we still may have the choice to avoid the creation of a fetish. Anything may become a fetish - a thing, a tool, an ideology. There are countless examples of religious, political, or cultural ideologies which are used as fetish, causing fundamentalism and totalitarianism, for instance. The topic "for the action's sake" is pointing to the action as such a fetish, whereby it is essential to explore the motivation of the one who is acting.

Contemporary society has developed into economically independent individuals who do not need each other to survive. Initially, this independence may seem as strength, while it is in fact an expression of weakness. A society focused on satisfying individual and personal needs, cannot survive as a society and civilization.

The selected videos contain aspects of self-relatedness, and the struggle for balance. It is up to the viewers to explore not only the films, but primarily themselves, to decide for themselves, which state of self-relatedness they identify with.

David Kareyan

(Yerevan, Armenia)

DAVID KAREYAN (b.1973) studied in Panos Terlemezyan Art College, and later in Yerevan Fine Art Academy (1990–1996). In 1996 he co-founded the "Act" group. In their works of 1993–2000, these artists emphasized new media, and observed art as a process for political activism, experimentation of cultural amortization and expanding of bounds of art. In exhibitions, held in 1993–2000 in the Center of Contemporary Innovative Art, he emphasized analyzes of post-Soviet social and political cataclysms and overcoming of the atmosphere of fear, and attempts to exit from the cultural isolation and total social control. His multi-screen video performance "No Return" in Eva Khachatryan's cooperation was presented in Armenian pavilion of 50th Venice Biennial. In 51st Venice Biennial in 2005 he presented "Resistance through Art" project. Since 2003 he prefers personal approach in art. His recent project, "New locality" is a synthesis of new medias and traditional materials. For him it is important to have "Affirmative images," showing the naturalness of artificiality and defending the value of life.

"I express prohibited desires in my works. These desires transform, are not recognizable, often are not even named and can be perceived as desires, which do not exist. Human desires are social by nature, though we often take them as something beyond the accepted limits. I am trying to understand the man. Is it possible to live without violence, what is the man's environment? Why can't the culture, being a compensating mechanism, specify those limits where a man will feel in his natural environment? Why does it seem to the man that the forest or the sea is his natural environment? Is it possible for reality to resemble art? I am striving to elicit such questions from the audience, using aesthetic and psychological oppositions."

Ulf Kristiansen

(Nesodden, Norway)

ULF KRISTIANSEN (b. 1969) is a painter and a video artist. He currently lives in Nesodden, a peninsula outside of Oslo, Norway. While starting out as a figurative painter, Ulf is now mainly focusing on 3d animation and machinima. His films have partaken in numerous international video festivals and exhibitions.

Based on 2 poems by William Blake, animation by Ulf Kristiansen:

"Blake is building on the conventional idea that nature, like a work of art, must in some way contain a reflection of its creator. The tiger is strikingly beautiful yet also horrific in its capacity for violence. What kind of a God, then, could or would design such a terrifying beast as the tiger? In more general terms, what does the undeniable existence of evil and violence in the world tell us about the nature of God, and what does it mean to live in a world where a being can at once contain both beauty and horror? The open awe of "The Tiger" contrasts with the easy confidence, in "The Lamb," of a child's innocent faith in a benevolent universe. By letting the tiger recite "the Lamb," the tiger appears somewhat mephistophelian even though the lamb is not letting herself be seduced. The tiger is also less than impressed by the lamb's poetry reading and seems to be planning his next meal."

ing amounts of time and money spent by individuals on becoming successful, and the consequences of such achievements. Jonas studied art in England and Japan between 1995 and 2000 after several years studying art in Sweden. He is since 2005 the project manager of the Art Video Screening which is an artist-run and non-profit event and platform focusing on videoart and aims to support artists work. Art Video Screening is an annual screening event that showcases videoart from Swedish and international artists who are pushing the elements of video practice.

About Self-muser her writes: "I've been far too used to an easy life. Instead of having to earn it, I have just been given everything and it's almost paralyzing. The world is my playground. I do what, when I want, how I want to do it. I have been trying to see what sets apart my amazing interactions from my mediocre ones. I looked at all of them. All the crazy blowouts. All the crazy nights. For all of them that I really feel good about there is one common theme, self amusement."

St. Nikola/Danube and Linz (Austria).

"Jumping in a puddle will be continued to an operate and excessive final. What in childhood after a few jumps was stopped is completed here. Water, mud and the black clothing generate short sculptural images and meet in their social definition in opposition. The radical intervention into the puddle of water, the pace of jumps and soiled pants connects us back in our childhood wishes."

"In my works i try to combine conceptualism with psychedelic trippy style. This is an attempt to make some kind of 'glitches' out of the stories and texts i read and see in life and in films. An attempt to catch a reflection of inner psychologism of every event."

(Germany)

Born in Hamburg, Ascan lives and works in Vienna and Cologne as a filmmaker, media artist and social scientist. At the moment he studies filmmaking (postgrad.) at the Academy of Media Arts (KHM) in Cologne.

- The Kurukshetra-Report (2008, 7:51)

"Two bodies in battle - mutually smitten in clean engagement. THE KURUKSHETRA-REPORT is an expedition to the nucleus of violence. In cold blood the video peels the flesh to reach the pure core, to make this dumb thing talk point-blank - without mercy."

David Jakobovic
(USA)

Since moving to the U.S eight years ago from Israel, David has been focusing on an editing career while staying at home and writing at nights (at least those nights when he wasn't editing until 5 in the morning!) Lately he has also started directing more, and in 2007 - in addition to editing many projects - shot 15 music videos, and a dramatic pilot starring Whoopi Goldberg, all of which he edited as well.

- JOINED AT THE HEAD (2008, 4:34)

"A monologue from the play 'Joined at the Head' comes to life as Jim confesses his guilty, personal feelings about what he is going through as his wife is dying. Imagination, thoughts and reality, as well as past and present, are all mixed up as a picture is painted about a deep confusion in Jim's mind, as he confronts love, hate and hopelessness of a situation he can do nothing about but observe sounds."

Daniel Lolocono

(Germany)

Born 06.02.1977 in Frankfurt/Germany 1998 - 2003 studied Media-Design at the University of Applied Sciences Mainz/Germany with focus on compositing and motion graphics 2003 diploma thesis "DIGITALSNAPSHOT"; worked from 2003-2006 as a Designer and digital Artist at various German post production and design studios. Since 2006 lives and works as freelancer in Barcelona exploring new visual adventures....

- Digital Snapshots (2003, 5:08)

"Digital Snapshots is a kind of docu-animation dealing with the correlation of digital manipulations and candid documentary shots. What does a moment look like? Can snapshots freeze a moment in time? In DIGITALSNAPSHOT, motion fragments were captured and rearranged in a new visual context via unconventional digital manipulations. A long take camera movement cycle generates a unique "digital painting". In this case DIGITALSNAPSHOT enables the viewer to experience a virtual walk through a beautiful park during summertime."

Alex Lora

(Spain)

Alex was born in Barcelona. After being refused in the Fine Arts College, he joins the Audiovisual Communication University in 1997. In the year 2000 he travels to Bologna (Italy) in order to finish his studies. In 2001 Àlex's life changed drastically: a serious disease was diagnosed in his left arm. He underwent surgery 13 times. In 2005 Àlex suffered a collapse that caused the amputation of his left arm, but he continues making short Films. He's chosen to take part in the Berlinale Talent Campus and he finishes a Master in Filmmaking where he writes his first feature screenplay and his last short film.

- So Much Love (2007, 1:26)

The Autotelics: Philip Mantione, Al Faaet (Santa Fe, USA)

A premiere collaborative performance with Al Faaet and Philip Mantione

Philip Mantione has composed music for orchestra, chamber ensembles, fixed media, computer-interactive performance, multimedia and sound installations, and experimental video. He recently formed The Transducers, a group of five composers and improvisors from diverse backgrounds that utilizes laptops, custom software, sound sculptures, circuit bending and custom electronics to produce unique sonic worlds. He was awarded a grant from Meet The Composer, for his participation in a series of workshops, a panel discussion and concert, as part of an event he had conceived, called The Improvising Composer (March 2010). <http://www.philipmantione.com>

Al Faaet: "I moved to New Mexico in 1984 from the Philly/Trenton area where I was the founder of the SPIRITUAL ENERGY COLLECTIVE, a seminal ensemble that played in that area from 1972 thru 1984... we used fire eaters, dancers, slide projections, and the like, to create a compelling multi media event....I also co-founded THE DRUM IS THE VOICE OF THE TREES, a series of 13 all drum and percussion concerts which sold out the Greer Garson Theater and Lencic Theater a number of times from 1992-2004. I can be found on the Effigy, Zerx, and High Mayhem labels. Some examples are; GRAND CROSS ECLIPSE with J.A.Deane from 2000, THE UNINVITED GUESTS with Carlos Santistevan, Chris Jonas, and many others from 2004, and WINDOW BLACK AS RAIN on Effigy, from 1998."

Niclas Hallberg, Stina Pehrsdotter (Sweden - virtual performance)

Stina Pehrsdotter (Sweden, 1966)

Stina is a curator and artist, autodidact, working in video, photo, street, installation, object and performance art inspired by the human body and its environment. During the last years she has focused on the body's desires and needs, wishes and loss. She explores the meaning of human life by diving deep into herself. In her works she often reflects on the connection between mind, body and soul, and tensions between body and environment. Her work can be seen as an exploration of existence and memories. Stina Pehrsdotter has participated in numerous exhibitions at home and abroad. She is engaged in many different international video collaborations, shown at festivals and exhibitions. As a curator, she has arranged many showings in a variety of contexts, and as being one of the founders of Formverk (art zone), an artist-run exhibition place, she has a broad network of other artists and independent art initiatives.

Niclas Hallberg (1965, Sweden)

Niclas Hallberg is a freelance artist since the last 10 years. Working in video, photo, installation, performance and painting. His experimental works deals with questions concerning identities, masculinity and humanity. He is using the moving picture to express feelings, make changes or to document a performance. He often uses himself as an actor and thereby he creates a feeling of intimacy. Niclas Hallberg has participated in several solo and group exhibitions in Sweden and abroad, and has made videos and photos commissioned by other artists and museums. Niclas Hallberg work in several international projects, focused on collaborational exchanges resulting in exhibitions and video screenings, and also in different art projects together with artists from around the world. Niclas Hallberg founded Formverk (art zone) 2004, together with Stina Pehrsdotter, an experimental exhibition and project space in Eskilstuna, Sweden.

About Alysse Stepanian

Stepanian is a multimedia, cross-disciplinary, and video artist. She is the creator, Program Director, and Curator of Manipulated Image video screenings. For April 2010, Wilfried Agricola de Cologne invited her to curate a video show of US artists titled "memory" and "identity" for VideoChannel online screenings based in Cologne. Stepanian is also the founding co-director of M.A.N.Y. (Musicians & Artists in New York). In 1998-99 she curated and presented multimedia performances by nearly 50 international artists in 5 festivals in New York City. The recent screenings of her own videos include: CeC - Carnival of e-creativity at Sattal/India from the collection of CologneOFF based in Germany; Abington Art Center near Philadelphia (video from the 1990's); Harold Golen Gallery in Miami, USA; Kunstfilmtag 09 in Düsseldorf; YOVEDO International Video Festival in New York City. Her webart was recently presented on HZ Online Journal, and Digital Fringe Online Festival based in Australia.

Stepanian has collaborated with Philip Mantione on multimedia installations with video, under the name BOX 1035. Their 2006 installation, "Don't be afraid, be ready" at Imagine Gallery in Beijing was listed in Beijing's City Weekend magazine as number one of the top 5 exhibits. Other collaborative installations were featured at the Kunsthaus Tacheles in Berlin, and The Islip Museum of Art in New York. L.P. Streitfeld has described their work as "a wry and profound commentary on the conflicted state of America's emotions." In 2001 their multimedia performance, "liveReal" was broadcast live on the MNN from DCTV in New York City. In 1998 their interactive performance, "Music for Typist," with music by Mantione and set design and performance by Stepanian, was presented at the Hayden Auditorium in New York City. Stepanian's videos have also been screened at the Leeds International Film Festival (UK); Center for Contemporary Art (Santa Fe, USA); Armenian Center for Contemporary Experimental Art (Yerevan, Armenia); Rencontres Internationales Paris/Berlin (2002-3): cinéma l'Arlequin (Paris) and Podewil (Berlin); Art In General and Dixon Place in New York City.

About Manipulated Image

About Manipulated Image

These monthly screenings feature experimental short videos by artists that explore the innovative use of technology and software to manipulate image. Guest artists discuss the way they digitally transform images to achieve their personal vision. Past screenings have presented diverse work within contexts that have allowed fresh discoveries about the possibilities of video as a creative medium.

Manipulated Image has been a pioneering program in bringing a global community of experimental video artists to Santa Fe, New Mexico, in the USA. It presents experimental short videos that have few, if any, alternative venues in Santa Fe. Curator, Alysse Stepanian culls fresh and innovative work from local, national and international artists, for unique programs that offer a sampling of current movements and conceptual frameworks in video art. Many of the videos screened are Santa Fe, US, or world premieres. During its first 10 events, Manipulated Image has hosted 18 guest artists who discussed their work in person, and it has presented work by 75 artists from 20 countries (5 continents), exposing local audiences to culturally diverse mix of ethnicities. Manipulated Image shows a body of work by each artist, giving a better understanding of the artist's vision. It presents diverse work in each screening, in order to expose audiences to the unfamiliar, to encourage a reexamination of the familiar, and to inspire a fresh outlook toward the world. It is in MI's philosophical core that letting go of one's preconceived notions is fundamental for understanding the motivational drives behind social forces, and the emergence of innovative and constructive dialogues.

About the German Partner Program

About VideoChannel – video project environments

VideoChannel is that platform in the context of [NewMediaArtProjectNetwork]:|cologne which is acting online and in physical space focused on artforms of film & video in a global context and the aspects of “memory” and “identity”.

Founded in 2004, VideoChannel invites curators from all over the world to contribute video art from their home countries and realizes numerous thematic features during a year. In this way, VideoChannel is hosting meanwhile a most comprehensive collection of video art from all continents dealing with essential questions of human existence and art. In 2005, VideoChannel started to present its collections worldwide in the framework of festivals, biennales and media art exhibitions, and extended its activities in 2006, when CologneOFF – Cologne Online Film Festival (renamed in 2010 to Cologne International Videoart Festival) was founded, when VIP – VideoChannel Interview Project was founded in 2007 and VAD – Video Art Database was established in 2008. Together with the latest initiative “artvideoKOELN”, these four instances form the Video Art Consortium (VAC) in the framework of the global network and complement each other concerning their aims and activities. VideoChannel is directed and chief curated by Wilfried Agricola de Cologne.
